+ Description

The room is equipped with an airlock which was originally the only existing room in the barn (the day labourers' room), a large oak staircase, still from the 18th century, gives access to the room with its empire notes... An English bath, a set of screens, the stone wall at the head of the bed and above all: an oculus (original bull's eye) preserved gives it a dreamy, gentle and peaceful character. A "recamier" bed can accommodate a child up to 12 years old.
