+ Description

La Maison du Pain d'Alsace offers a culinary journey into the heart of Christmas traditions, combining a museum, a bakery and a tea room.

In the bakery, the aroma of Christmas specialities fills the air as bakers craft puff pastry Christmas trees ('sapain'), gingerbread, schnitzlaïwel, christolle, berawecka and other delicacies, not to mention their range of nearly 35 varieties of bredele, all made and baked on site. The tour also gives visitors the chance to watch the bakers at work as they prepare these treats.

A tea room completes the promise of a delightful experience.

The museum, housed in the former 'poêle' (guild hall) of the bakers' guild dating from 1522, is well worth a visit! The history of bread and festive culinary traditions are celebrated through a sensory experience and a family-friendly quest exploring Christmas legends. It's also an opportunity to learn about the tradition of the Christmas tree in Sélestat and the importance of good food in Christmas celebrations

25 years of culinary delights, 25 varieties of Alsatian specialities

From 1 to 24 December, in the spirit of an Advent calendar, a speciality will be showcased every day between 10.30 am and 11.30 am, with samples available to try. And as a little treat, the speciality for 25 December will be included free of charge with all orders placed on the 24th! Subject to availability.
