+ Description

This hillside trail takes you on a wonderful walk with a chance to see the local trees and plants overlooking the village of Natzwiller. It can boast some beautiful views over the picturesque landscape of the Rothaine valley. A variant along the way includes a quick detour to a memorial site, the Struthof camp. It was built next to a granite quarry. Here, forced-labour prisoners extracted stones from the mountain. Among other things, the stones were used to make the road leading to the camp.
