+ Description

A classic and popular Christmas with the Chapelle Rhénane: Céline Mellon (soprano), Salomé Haller (mezzo-soprano), Benoît Haller (tenor), Lucien Moissonnier-Benert (bass)

La Chapelle Rhénane, a baroque music ensemble founded in Strasbourg in 2001, has been developing its activities with all kinds of audiences since 2017, and performs in educational, medico-social and even prison settings. Ubuntu, an offshoot of the prestigious ensemble, is a vocal sextet whose members regularly work together, developing a shared repertoire, and asserting that the joyful discovery of all styles of music is not reserved for specialists.

For this year's Noëlies, Ubuntu will be a vocal quartet, offering a program blending great a cappella music from all eras with ancient and modern Noëls, always both familiar and surprising.

It's an intimate evening in close contact with the artists.
