The National Collection 1 of the Digital Museum invites you to discover the masterpieces and treasures of seven of France's greatest cultural institutions. A true showcase of heritage excellence, it offers an ambitious and diverse overview of the artistic creation, history and scientific knowledge that shape our common heritage.

Bringing together the Centre Pompidou, the Palace of Versailles, the Cité de la Musique – Philharmonie de Paris, the Louvre Museum, the Musée National Picasso – Paris, the RMN – Grand Palais and Universcience, this collection spans centuries and disciplines. From masterpieces of modern and contemporary art to treasures of history and royal architecture, from music to technological innovations, each work reveals a facet of French cultural identity.

Projected in the heart of the digital gallery on the second floor of the château, this collection invites visitors to settle in and discover, at their own pace, the selection of the day in a space dedicated to exploration and contemplation.
