

MICRO-FOLIE : COLLECTION NATIONALE 2

Obernai

1 rue de la Léonardsau
67210 Obernai

+ Description

The National Digital Museum Collection invites visitors to discover the masterpieces and treasures of thirteen of France's greatest cultural institutions. A true showcase of heritage excellence, it offers an ambitious and diverse overview of the artistic creation, history and scientific knowledge that shape our common heritage. Bringing together the Centre Pompidou, the Palace of Versailles, the Cité de la Musique – Philharmonie de Paris, the Festival d'Avignon, the Arab World Institute, the Louvre Museum, the Louvre Museum – Lens, the Musée national Picasso – Paris, the Musée d'Orsay, the Musée du Quai Branly – Jacques Chirac, the Opéra national de Paris, the RMN – Grand Palais and Universcience, this collection spans centuries, cultures and disciplines. From masterpieces of modern and contemporary art to royal and historical heritage, from ancient civilisations to world cultures, from painting and sculpture to music and the performing arts, and from science to technological innovations, each work or experience offered by these institutions reveals a unique facet of French cultural identity. Projected in the digital gallery on the second floor of the château, this collection invites visitors to settle in and discover, at their own pace, the selection of the day in a space dedicated to exploration and contemplation.
